storing said supplementary media content from a disparate source of media content in a supplementary database; parsing and translating said stored supplementary media content into a format; and accessing the supplementary media content based on the trigger information, wherein said accessing occurs asynchronously, without simultaneous connection to a source of the broadcast signal and the disparate source of media content during said accessing.